First Time in 37 Years School Bell Rings and No One Goes From M'Kim Home

MT. VICTORY, Sept. 18.—For the first time in 37 years there was no hustle and bustle about the home of Mr. and Mrs. William McKim, South Washington st., when the bell summoned the pupils of the Mt. Victory school to the first day of the season Monday morning of last week. And there was a reason for it. It was the first time in so many years that there wasn't a child or grandchild of Mr. and Mrs. McKim scurrying about the house in a last minute search of book, pencil, hunkie or other important article needed for the occasion.

It was a queer day for Mrs. McKim, hearing the school bell ring for noon time and not have a dash kitchenward to make sure that dinner would be on time and it was equally queer when evening came not to have a first hand account of the doings of the first day of the school term. And that isn't all, it will likely be days before she can sit calmly by when the first bell rings in the morning, for in all these 37 years there wasn't a time when she was not able to get breakfast and about the kiddies off to school herself.

Mr. and Mrs. McKim are parents of eight children, Robert, Ed, James, Jennie, Claire, Richard, Harry and Bertha, who graduated from high school here and they have one grandchild, Lorna McKim daughter of Robert McKim, who made her home with them and graduated in May this year. Harry, Richard and Bertha McKim graduated in the same class in 1918.

Kenton, Sept. 18.—Instead of a special three-mill levy, the Ridgeview council will in all probability ask the voters of Ridgeview to support a two-mill levy at the November election, it was voted today.

RAY OF HOPE

Slowly Rising Temperature Forecast for Shivering Marionites

With Marionites shivering in summer clothing and longingly anticipating the "pay day" which will precede purchase of a new fall outfit, the weatherman, contrary to his usual procedure today, cast a gleam of hope by predicting slowly rising temperature for Wednesday.

Tonight, while fair, will continue cold, he adds.

The lowest temperature recorded here since spring were apparent yesterday when the high reached was only two degrees above 70 and a low at 40.

"MOTHERHOOD," A PHOTOPLAY THAT ALL SHOULD SEE—AT THE GRAND THEATRE

The cooperation of the Knickerbocker, Bellevue and Allied Hospitals of N. Y. City and leading members of the medical profession in the production of the world's most human photoplay, "Motherhood," which will be shown at the Grand Theatre for three days beginning next Thursday, Sept. 24th. It's a picture for adult intelligence and will lend authority to the depiction of the best methods of care for women throughout their time of expectant maternity, right up through her hospital ordeal.

While there are a few scenes of a clinical nature, the main part of the story is a straight and engrossing drama narrative of the lives of two women in different classes of society, faced with the problem of childbirth. To one, a society woman, the idea of having a baby is repellent and she makes every effort to do away with the prospective life. To the other, the flapper wife of a young time-clock puncher, the problem is faced honestly and intelligently, with every possible safeguard for the expected baby.

The purpose of Mrs. Lita Lawrence, who supervised this production and wrote the story, was to show that physical fear should no longer be a bar to the glory of motherhood. She was touching upon a subject that has seldom been honestly faced in real life, much less on the screen, and she came through the ordeal with colors flying.

"Motherhood" is a picture that thousands of people in every town ought to be waiting to see. Even fathers and mothers of families will probably learn much from it in the way of sane advice and all of the prospective fathers and mothers of the land owe it to themselves as well as to their prospective children to see it. There is nothing offensive to anyone in the picture. It is a forthright, serious effort but its seriousness is lightened by good comedy touches and while it preaches, it makes the lesson one of engrossing interest.

degrees was registered last night. The temperature remained high a year ago, noting the 90 mark in the afternoon. Eighty nine degrees was the high recorded and 60 degrees, low.

EAGLES DEFEAT CALVARY; 8 TO 2

CITY TITLE GOES TO LODGE TEAM

Last Year's Champions Lose Series on Own Misplay; Rice Hurls Champs to Victory; Gruber Wild and Is Yanked from Mound

BY KARL R. MCKEY
Sports Editor, The Star

THE best of them must have been the Eagles, champions of the city title, who won their first city championship by defeating Calvary in the finals of a seven-game series, 8 to 2.

Heralded as the greatest combination of players in Marion and as a team that could not consistently be beaten, Calvary passed the way the many other teams that have been defeated by their own misplay.

Those who believed that the church team could defeat the Eagles' thumbs down are today sadly shaking their heads pointing out what might have happened if so and so only would have done this or that. This is the first time the Eagles have been defeated since they won the city title last year.

Those who believed that the church team could defeat the Eagles' thumbs down are today sadly shaking their heads pointing out what might have happened if so and so only would have done this or that. This is the first time the Eagles have been defeated since they won the city title last year.

Not Best Team

No team in Marion is not the best team in Marion. One can pass over the Calvary team and, with a few exceptions, pick out players that are far better qualified for each position. One member of the championship team pointed this fact out to the writer before the contest started.

A team quite often will beat themselves. That is exactly what happened last night. After the first inning Calvary might just as well have picked up their toys and walked off the diamond. The great Gruber was a thing of the past as a menace to opposing batters. The best defense in the history of Marion was cracked.

Every series, recreation ball or otherwise, must have its goat. The 1929 goatkin rests upon the shoulders of Neimeyer. It does not fit but it is here, never the less. It was his one misplay that upset the entire Calvary machine and sent the Eagles home to their first pennant.

Right Have Been Here

If he had successfully completed the day, Neimeyer would probably have been hailed the hero of the series and the outcome might have been different. The will of the gods was otherwise and in the first inning, two men out and bases loaded, Calvary's star center fielder booted the ball out of the lot and four runs scored.

It was one of the most difficult plays attempted in the contest. Neimeyer compelled to run into right field to get the ball only to juggle it and later to foot it outside the playing lot. As outsiders ran after the ball, Bacon, Price, Andrews and McCann crossed the plate in that order.

Gruber was not his usual self on the mound. After the first two outs in that initial inning, his effectiveness and control vanished. He walked Bacon and Price touched him for a two-bagger. He filled the bases when Andrews was paced. Then McCann drove the ball out to right field and the fun was on.

Gruber Yanked In Fifth

In the fifth Gruber allowed two hits before gaining control of the box and fanning the next two men. McCann filled the bases with a single and Gruber forced a run in by walking Fogle. Here again the unrelenting Calvary infield faltered as A. Baldwin scored an easy one to Midlum who walked it allowing Solanders to land on first and Fogle on second. Bacon and McCann crossed the plate on this play. Gruber was taken out of the game and Messenger was sent in to stop the Eagles.

After the first encounter with Calvary the Eagles were under dogs of the series. That first game went to Calvary by a stroke of luck, much in the manner that the champions won last night. Then the Eagles went the way of the losers and defeated the C. U. & M. in a one-sided affair. Last Friday the lodge team outfoiled Calvary to even up the count and force the series into an extra game.

To Rube goes the credit of both Eagles victories over Calvary. He hurled mighty nice ball to put the series on ice.

After that first game, the Eagles snapped out of it and played great ball. Perhaps it was Bacon's playing on the infield that really settled the series. The added infield strength bolstered up

3,577 SEE GAMES OF LOCAL SERIES

Interest in recreation ball is not falling off. Instead, as the cold figures of the treasurer indicate interest is even growing for 3,577 persons saw the seven games of the 1929 series compared to 3,577 for nine games last year.

The average attendance this year was 511 fans at each game and last year the attendance averaged only 404. Last night's game in which the Eagles won the championship was witnessed by 801 fans, the largest game in the history of Marion recreation ball. A total of 302 witnessed the ill-lac game in 1927.

their defense enough to withstand the shock of the Calvary slugging. Hitting meant but little in last night's tangle. Calvary hit in last inning eight to six. It was the errors that counted, for Calvary chalked up four to the Eagles' two. There is a time and place for everything but errors seem to have no place in a recreation ball game.

Walsh Picks Cardinals To Win National

SAINTS ARE TWO GAMES IN FRONT

Giants Still Have Chance To Cop Pennant, but Averages Say They Must Take 10 of Their Remaining 12 Contests

BY DAVIS J. WALSH
NEW YORK, Sept. 18 — Figures don't lie, according to all accounts, so the writer is hauling right off today and swinging from the arch supporters with the statement that the St. Louis Cardinals are a just about "in" as far as the 1929 National league race is concerned. It doesn't mean to say that the Cards cannot lose; it is admitted that they can out also contended that very probably they won't. For the figures, puppets of great minds with but a single track are with me to a digit and, in the matter of reputed veracity, one could ask no more of Washington and I don't mean the ball club, either.

The Cards and Giants, as matters stand today, each have 12 games remaining between them and the wife The Chicago Cubs face only 11 games before the end and that's just because the Cubs have lost four games more than the Cardinals and, for aught, might as well forget the matter, turn their attention to something that might prove of personal importance.

Cards 2 to 1 Shot

If this narrows the issue to a question of the Cards and Giants and the writer thinks it does, the former can be regarded as a 2 to 1 shot for reasons. Obviously, the club has two games in front with only 12 to go; it is to be the favorite. The reason is that I fear we will have to give the Cards the benefit of the doubt on a couple of conceded points of the 12 games are over.

Three of the 12 are with the Boston Braves. Another is scheduled with the phantoms Phillies. This year can be held to strict accountability—stop if you have that one—for the Cardinals' position. In 21 games played with Cardinals this season, the Phillies have won two. Of the 43 played in two years, they have won five for a percentage of 11.8.

In consequence, one may be pardoned if he proves to be mistaken in the notion that the Cardinals will be a game nearer the pennant by nightfall.

Three With Braves

Three of the remaining 11 games are with the Braves. The Cards should win two of them, considering the fact that their season's record against the outfit is 15 won and four lost. The other eight games are with the Giants and Dodgers. If they get no worse than an even break in these, they will finish the season with 94 won and 68 lost, making it necessary for the Giants to turn to Boston.

With Hubbell on the mound, the Giants walloped the Pirates, 3 to 2, Oct. 10. Walsh and Traynor hit for the circuit. Today the Giants face tough going against Burleigh Grimes, who has beaten them five straight.

The Cubs, hanging on like a mustard plaster, murdered the Braves, 15 to 5. McCarthy's mob collected nineteen hits. A double by Gilbert, Brooklyn's rookie third baseman, with the bases full, featured Brooklyn's 7 to 3 win over Cincinnati.

Washington took fourth place away from Chicago in the American league by losing out Detroit, 4 to 3, while the pale hose were dropping a 6 to 3 decision to Boston.

NEW YORK, Sept. 19—The Athletics got a bad break when one of their scheduled contests with the Red Sox, favorite victims of the Mackmen, had to be dropped from the schedule. But another variety of that same schedule may yet win the American league pennant for the A's.

The Yanks have 12 more games to play and the A's 10. Should the two teams be tied after each has played 10 games, the Yanks would need to win both of their two remaining games to grab the hunting for an even break in the two contests would give the New Yorkers a lower percentage mark than the Mackmen for the entire season.

Today the Huguenot lead their rivals by a full game, as a result of their 12 to 2 triumph over the Browns yesterday while the A's were idle. They are connected for 16 hits while the Browns couldn't touch Hoyt until the ninth when Kress hit a homer.

In the National league the Cardinals, Giants and Cubs all won, so the race remained in status quo. Bottomley's twenty-ninth homer with two on gave

COLLEGE TEAMS TO OPEN SEASON

Ohio State, Big Six and Larger Football Elevens To Pry Off Lid Later; Coaches Send Candidates Through Tough Practices

COLUMBUS, Sept. 18—With nine college teams scheduled for their first gridiron clash, next Saturday, Ohio's 1929 football season will be inaugurated, though Ohio State, the Big Six and the more formidable elevens will not get into competitive action until later.

For the premier offering Ashland college will play host to Slippery Rock (Pa.) normal school. Findlay college will visit Otterbein at Westernville; Ohio Northern will entertain Bluffton college, and the ancient rivals, Wilmington and Antioch will clash at Wilmington.

ASHLAND—Fourteen letter men, 12 from last year and two from the year before, are on the 1929 Ashland college football squad. Among the outstanding new men are Brady, an Ashland high school product, at guard, and Host, an end from Indian Center, Ia.

WILMINGTON—Bowling Green college eleven has the hardest schedule it has ever confronted, according to advance word, and is far from being on easy street. Ben Penchoff, former captain and star halfback from Toledo White, however, is expected to do much for the Falcons this year.

COLUMBUS—Captain Albert Knauer is the last captain who will be elected to pilot Capital college gridmen. After this season, an honorary captain will be chosen at the end of the season. Coach Katherman is putting his team in preparation for the Baldwin-Wallace tussle here Sept. 20 when the new athletic field will be dedicated.

CLEVELAND—Abundance of material is at the disposal of Bob Fletcher, case grid mentor, this season, with 10 letter men back, a number of promising freshmen making up the roster. Profit-Taking Blocks Upward Trend of Industrials

COPPER AND MOTOR STOCKS TAKE LEAD

Banks Call 25 Million from Loan Market; Rate Goes Up

POOLS OPEN STRONG

Trade Runs at 4,000,000. Share Volume and Ticker Falls Behind

BY WILLIAM S. COLINS, I. N. S. Financial Editor

New York, Sept. 18.—Though the trend of industrial stock prices was upward today, the market encountered considerable opposition in the form of profit-taking and speculative selling, which blocked the progress of the market leaders after they had scored moderate advances.

The copper stocks and the motors gave the best account of themselves, with the airplane stocks as the spectacular ground gainers for the specialists. A few of the low-priced motors owned their market prominence to the reports of the success of the various companies in perfecting a new type of aerial motor, either for its own use or in conjunction with the activities of an affiliated company. Continental Motors' new jump to 250 and Yellow Truck's move to 39 1/2 were the most prominent of this group.

Before the end of the third hour the banks had called $25,000,000 from the call loan market and the rate went up to seven per cent. As high as 7 1/2 per cent was bid for small amounts of time loans, though the bulk of the business was transacted at seven per cent and 6 1/2 per cent. The industrial and business reports of the day were favorable, as also were reports from the commodity markets, where the firming up of prices is hailed as the best forecast of an active fall season.

Strong "openings" of a number of the pool stocks created a higher level of prices, as a starter, for Yellow Truck, Continental Motors, etc., but offerings crowded in at this level, and the rise

The planes are to operate here for the purpose of carrying passengers and also for instruction of local aviation students. Six local young men are already enrolled as students, a representative of the company stated today.
Both planes have been operating here the last two Sundays, using fields near the city for landing. Arrangements have been made to use the airport site west of the city in the future. The planes will be here every Sunday when weather conditions are favorable, according to present plans.
Training for prospective pilots is provided either in a regular course or individual lessons. The charge is $3 for a lesson lasting approximately 30 minutes. Ordinarily from 12 to 15 lessons qualify a student for venturing into the air alone, the instructors state. The number of lessons required depends upon the aptitude of the student.

MOTORMAN PRAISED
Hails Train as Tongue of Flame Shoots Out of Treadle
Columbus, Sept. 15.—While C. E. Riley, Newark, interurban motorman, was being congratulated for quick thinking and equally quick action, fire department officials of this city today were conducting a probe into the origin of a fire on an interurban trestle over the Norfolk & Western railroad tracks here last night.
Pilot of an eastbound southern Ohio Public Service interurban train of passenger and freight cars, Riley jammed the air into his brake controls when he noticed a tongue of flame licking at the side of one of the trestle supports.
Firemen extinguished the blaze which was menacing supports and ties of the structure. Authorities inclined to the theory that the blaze was of incendiary origin. Owing to Riley's quick action, but slight damage was done.

London, Sept. 15.—The Rev. Edwin Grigg, minister of Lockington, Shelby county, his brother, W. H. Grigg, and Dewey Rippey, also of Shelby county, were in the county jail here today under bond of $5,000 each pending action of the Madison county grand jury which will investigate charges of chicken smuggling preferred against the men.
The three were remanded to jail yesterday in default of bond which was imposed by Justice Mary C. Clark who also bound them over to the grand jury.
Deputy Sheriff Gorman Clark arrested the men in West Jefferson last week. Three empty chicken crates were in the rear of the men's auto and each told a different story in accounting for the presence of the crates, Clark said.
The men denied the charges.

FIND WOMAN'S SHOES
Only Tangible Lead Authorities Had Explored by Discovery
Ottawa, Sept. 15.—With the finding of the hitherto missing shoes of Mrs. Mary Hemler, 20, who was slain and thrown into the Blanchard river at Gillboa last week, the only tangible lead by which authorities had hoped to trace the slayer was exploded today.
Sheriff's deputies found the shoes in the river near where the woman's body was recovered. In their opinion, she was wearing the shoes when slain and action of the waters had caused them to slip from her feet.
Oscar McCamey, 20, farm hand and alleged lover of the pretty divorcée still was being held in county jail today as a material witness although he has denied any knowledge as to how Mrs. Hemler was killed.

The cost of running the city government of Philadelphia in 1927 was $58,819,892. On an estimated population of 2,035,900 this means a per capita cost of $40.88. From what we have read concerning the Quaker City's government, it isn't worth it.

The Call of Humanity.

The world has suffered greater catastrophes as a result of the assaults of the forces of nature than any of those which have marked the past eight months, but memory fails to recall a year marked by the multiplicity of horrors of the present.

There have been earthquakes almost without number, some of them mighty in their destructiveness to life and property; there have been floods in almost all parts of the torrid and temperate zones; there have been hurricanes, tornadoes, cyclones, typhoons and tidal waves; volcanoes have belched their lava, ashes and deadly gases and tidal waves have come in from the sea carrying death and destruction before them.

And now the West Indies, which have so often suffered the horrors of winds and waves in the past and were not yet recovered from the last terrific storm which swept them, have again been lashed by a 100-mile hurricane which has swept over fair Florida and is now passing on over the Mexican gulf.

A thousand would be a conservative estimate of the number of dead. It is feared that the death toll will run that high in Porto Rico alone, where the known dead number over 300. Two hundred and thirty-five bodies have already been recovered in the little island of Guadalupe. Many islands have been isolated by the storm from communication with the world and what they may have suffered can not even be conjectured. Florida will add to the awful total, and if the estimated thousand dead is not exceeded it will be a matter for rejoicing, for last week's storm is held more severe than that which swept Miami two years ago. Added to this awful death toll is a property loss which will run high up into the millions if not into the hundreds of millions.

The forces of man can not prevent such horrors as these of which we have been speaking. That is beyond mankind. But mankind can alleviate the distress and suffering which such calamities entail. President Coolidge takes recognition of this in urging immediate relief for the sufferers. It is a call to humanity which should bring speedy response the land throughout.

One Crime Leads to Others.

The story of the naming and mutilating of four boys on what is now referred to as the "Northcott murder farm" near Los Angeles and the subsequent murdering of the four, as related by Sanford Clark, a young Canadian lad, and confirmed by his uncle, the father of the twenty-one-year-old murderer, is sickening in its horror.

If the facts are as charged, it is a case of a young degenerate, aided by a degenerate mother, emulating the crime or crimes of another young California degenerate, Hickman, who has been tried, convicted and sentenced to death and yet, through the technicalities of the law, has been able to escape execution for months.

Young Clark told the police authorities that his cousin, Gordon Stewart Northcott, had showed the deepest interest in the Hickman case; that he had familiarized himself with every published detail of that young fiend's course in the murdering and dismembering of the body of little Marlan Parker and seemed to have been greatly influenced by that unwholesome little coward's horrible crime. There was nothing bearing on the Hickman case, the Clark boy told the officers, that young Northcott was able to secure that he didn't read, the young murderer getting almost as much enjoyment, apparently, out of articles bearing on Hickman's crime as he did out of the torturing, maiming and murdering of his own victims.

Have we not here a double indictment? Is it not an indictment of both the law and court procedure? In the light of the Clark lad's story can there be doubt that the Hickman case had its influence on young Northcott? Can there be question but what all the technicalities of the law invoked in the Hickman case made an impression on the four-time murderer? Can it be held that the fact that young Hickman has so long been able to escape the penalty of his crime did not have its effect on young Northcott?

We find it hard to escape the conclusion that the one case had a marked influence upon the other and that the four murders might never have been committed by Northcott had Hickman been promptly tried, convicted and executed as he should have been.

And while on the subject of indictments, can the press escape a share of blame for printing all the details of such a crime as that of the miserable little rat, Hickman, regardless of the effect its course may have on other degenerates? We do not believe that it can. We can not but feel that the printing of the gruesome details of such a crime as Hickman's is bound to lead to similar crimes, unless punishment for such a crime is speedy.

Flaming youth will not be denied. An Illinois veteran of eighty-six and a widow of seventy-seven have just married following a short acquaintance which began when they met at a circus.

A Missouri motorist, who was injured when his car was hit by a landing airplane, has been sued for damages, being charged with "driving carelessly in front of an airplane." The true aristocrat of the land who can read this without at least an inward smile isn't normal.

The Rev. Dr. Henry C. Offerman says that "were Jesus on earth today, He would vote." We have never taken much stock in the utterances of those who tell us what Jesus would do were He on earth today for the reason that we do not believe they know what they are talking about. The history of the Lord, when on earth, doesn't offer anything to indicate that He was careless in the selection of His spokesmen.

The August output of American motor cars and trucks was 485,000, and the outlook is that production for the year will establish a new record. We true aristocrats of the land may just as well look the situation squarely in the face and recognize the fact that we are doomed.

A high Canadian court has refused to hold rum-running legal. Bit by bit, the walls against the flood of Canadian liquor coming into this country are being made higher and higher, and strengthened in every way. Were our own courts half so ardent as the Canadian in the cause of suppressing rum-running, it would not be long till this country would be as dry as it is now wet.

Jimmy McSwain, the American "human fly," is dying in Durham jail, over in England. Having served his time in Sing Sing he escaped the attention of the police for several years, but finally was betrayed by a finger print made by him in one of his jobs, over there, and apprehended. No matter how sharp the criminal may be, sooner or later he is in some way betrayed and made to answer for his crimes. Crime doesn't pay.

LIFE'S LITTLE TRAGEDIES.

Healthier Babies Means Progress.

BY ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

There are few news items that could possibly thrill me as this one did! Here is what the newspaper headline said: "Infant Mortality Lowest on Record."

Then followed this statement: "The infant mortality rate in cities of the United States during 1927 was lower than in any previous year, the American Child Health Association announced."

Last year the rate was 61.0 per thousand—deaths in the first year of life, as compared with 78.7 in 1926, and 109 in 1915. The report includes the figures of 428 cities in forty states. These are the states having approved registration laws, recording at least 90 per cent. of all births.

It is gratifying, too, to know that the improvement is practically universal. Almost every city shows a reduction in the death rate.

Among the cities of greater than 250,000 population, the lowest rate, forty-one, is found in Seattle, Minneapolis and Portland, Oregon, come next with forty-seven each.

The ten largest cities in the United States show the following: New York and Cleveland, fifty-six each; St. Louis, fifty-seven; Chicago, sixty-three; Philadelphia, sixty-four; Los Angeles, sixty-seven; Detroit, seventy; Pittsburgh, seventy-two; Boston, seventy-six; Baltimore, eighty-two.

Among other cities we find low figures, as follows: Bridgeport, Connecticut, forty-three; St. Paul, forty-nine; Oakland, California, and Grand Rapids, Michigan, each fifty-three; Tacoma, Washington, forty-nine; Berkeley, California, forty-two.

Here are the lowest rates: In Massachusetts the city of Medford has a record of thirty-three; Dedham, twenty-three, and Chelsea, thirty-five; Oak Park, Illinois, too, has thirty-five; Summit, New Jersey, fifteen; Cohasset, Ohio, twenty.

Alameda, California, beats everybody. The record there is only nine per 1,000. This is truly remarkable.

I have recited these figures for the purpose of stimulating you to do your full part in making living conditions in your neighborhood what they should be. In my opinion, this infant death rate is the most reliable index of the civilization and humanity of any given community.

Water supply, milk supply, housing conditions, cleanliness of the streets and atmosphere, hospital facilities, park system, wages of the bread-winner, and the quality and availability of medical and nursing care—upon these depends the fate of babies born into a given neighborhood.

What there are is largely, if not wholly, the result of the public attitude towards human beings. The quality of the citizenship, then, can be measured by what happens to the babies.

Editorial Comment.

GOVERNOR SMITH AND HIS EPIDERMIS.

"My boy," said a veteran politician of southern Michigan to a beginner in the game who once upon a time was squirming under undesired attack, "simply everything and explain nothing."

There is some sense in the advice, and while we do not suggest that Governor Smith should admit that he was intoxicated at the New York state fair in Syracuse, since clearly he was nothing of the sort, but was perfectly sober, it evidently would do him no harm if he were to tugchen up his epidermis a little.

As the campaign proceeds it is going to be necessary for the Democratic presidential nominee to devote considerable time and attention to the important issues of the campaign, such as the tariff, the farm relief problem, the waterways question and the prohibition issue which he has personally injected into the campaign; at least he must do this if he wishes to make any impression on the voters of the country, and he is going to find his hours exceedingly full, not to say excessively overburdened, if he undertakes to do this, and at the same time conduct a lengthy investigation and make a laborious report to the country every time he hears that some woman has put something in a private letter to another woman that reflects upon his reputation or habits, or every time some more or less obscure or intangible rumor which reflects upon him or he thinks reflects upon him rears its head in some corner or other of the country.

A man must have regard for his honor, and a person in public life must consider his reputation; but a veteran in politics ought also to remember that many things which are in the course of a campaign which a grown individual must forget or ignore unless he desires to run the risk of being considered a whiner, or at the most, must let his friends and supporters handle.

Furthermore most cheap slanders travel only a little way in a national campaign and cause little harm except to the slanders if they are left to die a natural death.—Detroit Free Press.

Musical Auroras.

BY GARNETT P. BERNIS.

The following letter, seeking for information, is interesting for the information that it itself supplies concerning a disputed phenomenon connected with the aurora borealis:

"Will you kindly explain the origin of the aurora borealis? This was a little more noticeable during the display last week than of that of the week, neither being as loud as the one several years ago."

The first aurora was much lighter in color and more fluctuating. The one last week was darker, with more red color, while the one this week was of a deeper red color, with less fluctuations. It would seem that the aurora shades give an order and more musical tone. Or, expressed in radio terms, higher pitch and greater volume.

"When I ask any of my friends they think I am 'spouting,' but there is a sound to the aurora, and you may be familiar with it.—X. Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania, July 11, 1928."

No, I have never heard any sound caused by any aurora I have seen. But other persons have reported hearing sounds which they believed were connected with such displays. They have been described as faint rustling or swishing sounds; but I have never before heard of their having a "musical" tone. Some have denied the possibility of any sound being heard from the play of electric currents at an elevation of many miles above the earth. But the sounds might arise from associated electrical disturbances at the earth's surface, for auroras are always accompanied by more or less disturbance of the earth's magnetism, and during a strong aurora the magnetic needle often exhibits extraordinary excitement. I regret that my Pittsburgh correspondent neglected to attach his full address, for his letter indicates that he may be able to contribute interesting facts to our scanty knowledge of the aurora borealis.

I suggest that all who may happen to see an auroral display should endeavor to detect any possible sounds appearing to be caused by it and, if they hear anything of that kind, communicate their observations to the Harvvard observatory. The writer of the letter above also suggests an important subject concerning which amateur observers could probably supply valuable notes, viz: the colors shown by auroras. These are often very striking and brilliant, and it would be useful if the observer could make a sketch in outline on which to note location and relative area of the patches of color seen. These are often shifting like the streamers and curtains of light themselves. Notes on the changes and the depth of colors, and on the precise character of any sounds heard, would be welcome contributions to science, and I have no doubt that any large observatory would receive them gladly for record, and perhaps in some cases for publication.

There is a very wide and rich field for exploration in nature which professional observers can not fully cover, but which now, with the rapid advance of popular education in science, should begin to yield a great store of knowledge contributed by amateurs, who, by the cultivation of the habit of careful and thoughtful observation, would gain an advantage for themselves perhaps even more valuable than the contributions they would be able to offer to science.—Copyright, 1928, International Feature Service, Inc.

Fire Goddess of Hawaii.

BY TEMPLE MANNING.

The Hawaiian Islanders worship the fire-goddess, Pele. They believe that she must be eternally propitiated, else she will show her displeasure in an unpleasant form. For it is the goddess, Pele, who makes her home in the volcano, Kilaua. She and the rest of her family, the gods, goddesses and ghost-gods, live there and all the eruptions, smoke clouds, thunder and lightning storms, are supposed to result from the displeasure of these fearsome gods.

Pele shows her anger in many ways. When the great fire-bit of Kilaua bubbles and boils, it means that the goddess is wrath. Accordingly, beautiful fire was hurled into the crater's depth, in the hope that the human sacrifice will propitiate the angry goddess. Unfortunately it is seldom that the goddess becomes appeased—the sacrifice no longer being observed—for the rumblings and grumbings of the volcano grow into a storm of gravel, and boulders and dust, tons of it, come up out of the crater.

Pele gives other warnings of her approaching displeasure. Small lava bombs are cast up from the depths of the volcano. These are weirdly shaped, and are regarded, according to the shape and size, as omens and portents. The natives call them "Pele's tears."

However, the goddess shows her pleasure in a lovely way as she is disagreeable when angry. The flowers of Pele are lava stalactites, encrusted with crystals. "Pele's hair" is filamentary lava. These manifestations of the goddess' good grace are extremely beautiful, and are, naturally, hailed with delight by the natives.—Copyright, 1923, Newspaper Feature Service, Inc.

San Francisco Restaurants.

BY O. O. MINTYRE.

San Francisco, Sept. 18.—For hungry explorers in search of atmospheric epicurism San Francisco is a paradise. Cafes differ from the brisk and sunny new types in Los Angeles. Here they have a leisure and the sea and meadowiness of years. There are few fixed stucco affairs.

A distinct individuality is observed and the cheapness of excellent food is a feature. Famed gourmets have gone into ecstatic raptures over the savory cuisine. Enrico Caruso, no less, found it tickled his discriminating palate more than food in any other city save Naples.

Legend credits the appetizing fare to the hearty appetites of those in search of the Golden Fleece. But the traditional demand for good food must be aided somewhat by present-day hill climbing. Scamper up hill and down vale awhile and what you can do to a steak is something killing.

One may dine as cheaply and well as in present-day Paris. Cafes here do not predominate as in many western cities. Table d'hote courses flourish. French and Italian cafes—with French papas bowing and ogling mustachioed signors smiling their welcome—are in profusion.

Scattered in the polyglot array are Slavonic, Spanish, Hungarian, Mexican, Greek and innumerable Chinese. There is an Old world obscurity—the Chinese eat to please and not for the amusement of a foreigner. A village with its plagiarized posing from sculleries of Montparnasse.

San Francisco makes a festival of dining—a gastronomic gesture which is doubtless a throwback to the influence of the early Spanish fiesta. One finds chatter, laughter, song and a vivaciously epitomized in the celebrated cellar of Coffee Dan's.

Here the diner is hilariously kidded as he descends the stairs with a deafening hub-bub of mallets beating riotously on table tops. Among the noted places are Camille's, Berre's the Cliff House, Tait's at-the-Beach, Coppa's, the Palais Royal, Solari's and Marquard's.

Broadway, Kearney, Columbus avenue, upper Montgomery, Market and Powell are high spots of the "Eating Belt." There is a thoughtful patience on the part of servers while you scan menus. To those accustomed to having menus snatched away this is delightful. There is always a piquant entre and perhaps a shell fish bordelaise, tagliarini, spaghetti, ravioli and a paste like lasagne. Queer and marvellous sauces. Real thick crusted French bread. O, so many things to make a meal what it rarely is these calory counting days.

San Francisco is lapped on three sides by the rise and fall of the Pacific. As a result its sea food offers a bewildering variety. There are fish grottoes featuring fish caught the same morning and unloaded in window aquariums. A patron may select his fish rather vulgarly by pointing and have it cooked to his taste. There are also crabs, shrimps, oysters, clams, the abalone with its rainbow shell, sand dais, prawns and even eels. A favorite breakfast dish is sole scrambled with eggs and it is due to a hallel of it this morning that I'm so merry and bright. O, sole mio!

The glorified jazz orchestra was cradled here. San Francisco gave to the world in general and New York in particular Paul Whiteman and his nervous right foot. Another pioneer jazz exponent is Art Hickman—a Hickman, Kentucky, boy who made good in the city. A favorite jazz virtuoso of jazz orchestration came to New York and sent nimble feet flying on the old Midnight Frolic road. But he turned his back on New York for San Francisco at the pinnacle of his popularity. And today he reigns at the leading hotel—the St. Francis.

I visited the historic Barbary coast whose wild rhythms inspired most of our black-shaking dances tonight. It is now a strip of vacant lots and deserted buildings and as lively as a graveyard. A stray dog rising up in the gloom of a lonely dump heap to stretch sent a certain New York boy scurrying over a nearby hill belching fire and flapping his ears in nothing flat. That's how spooky the old Barbary coast is these days, my dears.—Copyright, 1923, by the McNaught Syndicate, Inc.

The Way of the World.

BY GROVE PATTERSON.

Washington, with the tower of London in the offing, or a gallow on a lonely hill, was willing to forsake his luxurious home at Mt. Vernon and join himself to a ragged band which sought to make a nation out of the American colonies. It's easy enough to throw your fortunes with almost any cause when you have nothing to lose. How many propositions there are which appeal to us because "we have nothing to lose" every day. A favorite Washington, a prominent and rich colonist, had everything to lose and little to gain. With the war won he faced a far less serene and comfortable life than he had in the old pre-war days. Nietzsche said

Verily, my daughter, harem have passed away and the seraglio is no more!

But still do men continue to demand all the charms and accomplishments of a whole harem in ONE wife!

For it hath come to pass that a man no longer seeketh a cook, a valet, a nurse, a seamstress and a household pet for his delight; yet the life of a modern wife is by no means one long, sweet Saturday afternoon.

Go to! Once a man desired only a friends companion, who would sit beside him after dinner and hear him sweetly while he read her snatches from the evening paper.

But now he requirith a good sport and a little playmate, with a nerve of steel and a cast-iron constitution, who can peg a tent, drive a car, change a tire, wield a wicked dancing foot and carry her own grip.

Yea, even a pal and a roughneck, who delighteth to share his guinea.

Once he asked only that the damsel of his choice be sweet and pretty and gracious withal.

But now he demandeth a Paris doll, who shall out-dress the mannikin and serve as a show piece wherewith to dazzle his friends and rouse the envy of his rivals.

Once he asked only that the wife of his bosom keep his meals hot, his house swept and his garments mended.

But now he requirith one that shall run his house with one hand while she playeth golf with the other, and keepeth him AMUSED, today, yesterday and forever.

Once he desired only a woman who would blink at his faults and blind herself to his sins.

But now he sigheth for one who will understand his complexes, indulge his weaknesses and invite his women friends and his playfellows to the house.

Once he required only a woman that would comfort and console him.

But now he requirith one that shall vamp him, jolly him, entertain him and inspire him.

And only a prize-winner, with the figure of a Follies beauty, the face of Helen of Troy, the wit of Ed Wynn, the agility of a fireman, the constitution of Gene Tunney and the enthusiasm of a cheer leader will satisfy him!

How, then, can any damsel hope to be ALL things to one man, which is the ideal wife?

Some new china has a tiny edging of gilt to emphasize its pattern. When washing this type use very little soap in the water as the soap takes off the gilt.

PICTURE FRAMES

Modern right now are the very narrow picture frames that are painted the same color that the "woodwork" or furniture is. There may be a pair of green frames and a pair of orange ones in a single room.

STUFFED TOMATOES

A delicious luncheon or supper dish is made by stuffing fresh, peeled and hollowed out tomatoes with left-over corn cut off the cob and mixed with the tomato pulp, green peppers and butter. Season and bake until tomatoes are tender.
